

Weeding

In accordance with general American Library Association standards, public library collections need to be weeded regularly. The employees selecting materials for the agency or the specific subject area should do the weeding.