SUMMER READING CLUB PROGRAM

Dive In!

"The Readings GREAT!"

Look out below! The hungry sharks are circling the waters. Beneath the waves greedy octopi, their tentacles outstretched, grab hold of the books that represent "Dive In! The Reading's GREAT".

The Summer Reading Club Program at the Lowell Public Library and the Shelby and Schneider Branches is about to begin!

The ocean motif is planned to stimulate the children's interest in reading. The circling "sharks", each one placed in the sea by a club member who has read ten books, will be "fed" a new "fish" for every ten additional books read.

Exciting adventures await our deep sea divers over the summer months with programs and activities to chase away any summer doldrums.

Monday, June 10th is the first day for children to register and check out books. It is also the first day they can purchase books of their very own from the "Children's Book Fair" that will take place during the week of June 10-17 at the Lowell Public Library and its branches. Lowell's Summer Reading Club activities are as follows:

TUTORS TAKE TO THE FARMS

They're fired up and ready to go - the tutors of the Lowell Public Library Literacy Program for seasonal farm workers. Tutors Dorothy Tortorici, Cedar Lake resident; Lucy Perez, resident of Griffith; and Lowell residents Jo Truelove and Jane Canfield will begin teaching Survival English Skills to workers on two area farms in Schneider. Joining them will be a new knot of volunteers who attended the ESL (English Second Language) Workshop in May. They are: Darlene Roy, Lucie Mendoza, Sally Borkowski and Kyle Kafoure. All of these wonderful volunteer tutors will meet on the farms every Sunday afternoon from 1:00 PM to 3:00 PM. They will teach our native language to the farms seasonal workers, helping them to adjust to a different culture and be better prepared for difficult situations they may encounter in their day-to-day experiences. Anyone wishing to become a tutor for the migrant workers should contact Nell Fabish at 696-7704.

Time out!

FRIENDS GEAR DOWN FOR SUMMER

Friends of the library will take a well earned hiatus for the summer and will resume their regular meetings in September. They've had a busy spring, full of activities to benefit the library. First they helped the library celebrate National Library Week by providing cookies to serve to library patrons throughout the week. They also assisted with the career programs that were held at the library each day during that special week. Over 350 children attended. They also sponsored the Annual Student Art Exhibit at the library.

Entrants from several Tri-Creek area schools displayed their art pieces and awards were presented.

Friends then hosted a reception for the young artists and their families to celebrate the students accomplishments. The Friends' last project, before summer officially begins, will be to begin an on-going booksale in the library's foyer. Hardback and paperback books and magazines will be available for purchase with all proceeds to be donated by Friends of the Library for special purchases.

They will also sponsor a Children's Book Fair during the week of June 10 - 17 at the library and the Shelby and Schneider Branches. Friends deserve a nice long rest after the busy spring season.

HAVE A GREAT SUMMER!
